All about your book

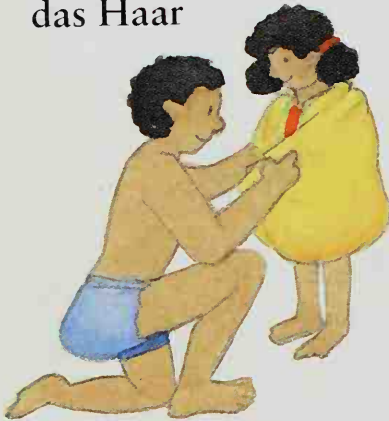

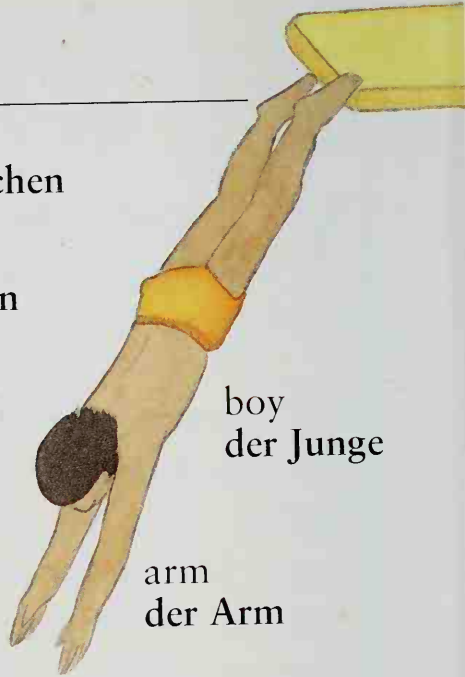

Your Little Library picture dictionary will help you learn your first 200 words in German.

The German words are printed in heavy type (die Katze) and appear with the English word beside a picture of the word. You will see that most of the German words have a small word before them, meaning “the” (der, die, or das). When you learn these words, don’t forget to learn the word for “the,” too.

If you hear people speaking German, you will notice that many of the sounds they use are quite different from the ones we use in English. So ask a parent or teacher, or best of all a German person, how to say the words correctly.

You can test some of the words you have learned by doing the word square puzzle at the end of the dictionary.
